WASHINGTON STREET PAVING COMPLETED

Macadamizing Will be Finished Today With Exception of Small Amount of Rolling.

With the exception of a slight amount of rolling still to be done, the macadamizing of Washington Street from Mineral Point Avenue to the north city limits will be completed tonight. The rolling will be finished early next week. Six men are at work cleaning up today and putting on some finishing touches. The new pavement is 3453 feet long and thirty-three feet wide, four and one-half inches thick in the center and three inches thick at the gutter after rolling. This is just the standard thickness for macadam, but underneath seven-eighths of the new pavement is old stone foundation in good condition. Where new foundation was required the macadam was put down according to the standard specifications.

The paving crew of Gund, Graham and Company, supervised by George Chitt, put in fifty-one actual days work and the maximum number of men employed was twenty-two and of teams thirteen. Thirty-five hundred loads of material were handled in grading or hauled away as waste, and thirty-two hundred cubic yards of crushed rock were hauled from the city stone quarry. The pay-roll of the laborers averaged $1,000 every two weeks. The total cost of the improvement exclusive of curb and gutter trenches and sidewalk grading, which was also included in the contract, is approximately $11,000. The cost of the curb and gutter trenches is $1034.

During the earliest stages of the work, considerable time was lost because of rain and bad weather, but good weather made very rapid progress possible in the last three weeks. The six dump wagons belonging to the contractors will be stored in the city through the winter as they have the contract to macadamize Milwaukee Avenue from Garfield to Jackson Street. Superintendent Croft will begin work there in the spring as early as the weather will permit. This job calls for 3490 square yards of macadam.

Washington Street will not be oiled until spring. The pavement will then have a firmer and less impervious surface than at present and the oil will give much more satisfactory results than if it was applied at the present time. Mr. G. W. Graham will be in the city tomorrow to inspect the work for the contractors and the Board of Public Works will probably make an inspection some time next week.

CITY STONE CRUSHER CLOSED DOWN TODAY

Machinery Ceased Operations This Noon And Most of Men Were Laid Off—Output of Season Large.

Operation of the crusher at the city stone quarry ended for this season at noon today and all but four of the men employed there were laid off. Those who remained will remove the belting and put the machinery in shape for the winter. All the bins were filled before the crusher was stopped. Superintendent William Dulin has not yet footed up his figures to the amount of stone crushed and delivered this season, but it is known that it will be large and probably very much in excess of last season's output.

Most of the stone crushed in the last two months has been used in the macadamizing of Washington street. Earlier in the summer large quantities were used in paving North Main St.

Mrs. James Mount and Miss Grace Mount are spending a few days in Chicago.

Sport Snap Shots

by Dan McCarty

Unusual interest centers this year in the place of holding the annual meeting of the grand circuit stewards. While legally the meeting should be held in Michigan, as the grand circuit was granted its charter in that state, both New York and Pittsburgh are fishing for the meeting. New York may get it. A straw vote shows that Lexington, Hartford, Reading, Salem and Syracuse probably will vote for the eastern metropolis. Fort Erie probably will favor Buffalo. Pittsburgh and Grand Rapids may each be counted upon to vote for themselves. Kalamazoo with one vote and Detroit with two are sure to vote for Grand Rapids. Thus the vote would stand five for New York, four for Grand Rapids, one for Pittsburgh and one for Buffalo. Columbus is yet to be heard from and upon that vote depends the bringing about of a tie or swinging the meeting to New York.

Tommy Gavigan is a busy man these days, training for his twelve-round battle with Jack Denning, the classy New York middleweight, which takes place at Akron on the night of December 3. The battle promises to be the best ever fought at Akron by middleweights.

Now that Frank Gotch has retired from the wrestling game for good, the question arises: Who will succeed him as world's champion? Two candidates are in the field for the honor: Zbyszko, the Polish champion and Hackenschmidt, the Russian. Of the two, Zbyszko looks the better just now. The Russian made a great impression with everybody until he met Gotch. Since then he has not received very serious attention. He may be one of the world's best, but he looks considerably smaller by the side of Gotch than does the Pole.

American bred horses made a great record on English turf in 1912. Two classic races—the Two Thousand Guineas and the St. Leger—were captured by Mr. Dureya with Sweeper II, and Mr. Belmont with Tracery, the former being admittedly American bred. Whiskbroom found no superior at the mile, while J. R. Keene's Castleton was equally unbeatable at shorter distances. Louis Winan's Adam Bede carried off the Cambridgeshire, one of the most coveted races of the year; while Americans also secured a large proportion of other races.

Johnny Kilbane last week commenced light training for his bout with Monte Attell, which is to take place in Cleveland on the night of December 3. Although he anticipates little trouble from the Pittsburgher, the champion does not promise to be caught napping, and he will be in the best of condition when he enters the ring.

Kilbane plans on going to the Pacific coast soon after his bout with Attell, for he likes the twenty-round game better than the ten and twelve-round affairs permitted in the east. It is not at all improbable that Tom McCarey will offer a good purse and clinch the proposed match between Champion Johnny and Johnny Dundee.

and Mrs. W. T. Sherman of La Prairie, and well known to many of the young people of this city, was this year one of the stars of the St. John's Military Academy football team which won the academy championship of the state. This was the young man's first year at St. John's, but his work on the team won him the commendation of the coaches and the approval of his classmates. He was played in the backfield, but his real stellar work was at end, and it is thought that by another year he will be one of the most shifty ends in the west. He with two other members of the football squad—Earl Hewitt of Delafield, and Harry Welch of Waukesha, made up one of the most aggressive trios the academy has ever had. In the Thanksgiving day game with the Carl Schurz high school team of Chicago, the Delafield school players wiped up their opponents, 86 to 0. Young Sherman not only excels in athletics, but is well up in his studies, and last month he reached the grade which entitled him to wear a star, as a mark of scholarship.

Janesville Football Team Worsted 28 to 0 in Thanksgiving Day Contest at Sawdust City.

Oshkosh, Wis., Nov. 29.—Oshkosh won the state high school title from Janesville 28 to 0. Spectacular forward passes and long end runs on fake punts by Oshkosh gained most ground. third period. Oshkosh scored two touchdowns in the last quarter on straight football. Simpson kicked four goals. Oshkosh lost over a hundred yards on penalties. Simpson, Webster, Wenzel and Pribe starred for Oshkosh and Falter for Janesville. Oshkosh has not lost a game in five years.

H. H. BLISS, Mgr.
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 1st day of November, 1912.
OLIVE M. HAYWARD,
(Seal) Notary Public.
My commission expires July 12, 1914.

THE RECALL.

It is currently reported that a dozen petitions are being circulated, demanding a recall of the three men who are now serving the city as commissioners, and asking for another election, with a view to securing a commission that will be more satisfactory to the disgruntled element.

It is not difficult to trace the origin of this movement, or to define the cause which prompts to action. The enforcement of law in the interests of morality and protection has proved a financial hardship to the men directly interested, and has aroused the sympathy of a larger class, who believe in a wide open town.

This is the combination, backed by a few disappointed office-seekers, who have devoted their time to criticizing the commissioners, ever since they were elected. If a sufficient number of names are secured, as there doubtless will be, it means another election, at the expense of the taxpayers. In the meantime the voters will do well to consider the issue, which is simply this: Do we want a law-respecting and a law-abiding city, or do we want a wide open town. Other side issues may be brought in, such as incompetency and extravagance, but they amount to nothing. The commission is handling the business of the city intelligently and faithfully, and with the organized moral support, now back of it, has commenced to make a record for cleanliness along moral lines.

While the commission may not be all that could be desired, it is a good commission, and better than could be expected under the conditions which existed at the time of the election. The opponents to the commission form of government, took their defeat to heart, and then went out to do the best they could for themselves. They succeeded in electing one man to their liking and another who was neutral on many questions.

If a new election is ordered, they will not attempt to defeat Mayor Fathers, for that would be a hopeless task, but they will attempt to elect two commissioners, who can be handled in their interests. It is unfortunate that an election should be called, but perhaps it is just as well to know where we stand, as a city, and the election will settle this important question.

LABOR AND THE TARIFF.

"Laboring men must realize by this time," said an employer of hundreds, "that the wages of labor are about the last things to come down; but if the democrats tinker with the tariff, as seems assured, labor, like almost everything else, will be forced to liquidate; and while there may be trouble persuading workmen of the country that liquidation is the only course left open, it will have to come, if the tariff is lowered to any marked degree."

The stubborn fact, outlined by this paragraph, is not generally recognized until it dawns full-fledged upon the industrial world. Wage scales, well sustained, are the product of good times, when labor is all employed, and the supply is not equal to the demand, but when the demand falls off and two men are waiting for every job, wage scales are abandoned, and if times of depression are long continued, the question of wages is lost in the desire to work at any wage.

This was true in 1893-94 and it will occur again, under like conditions. A visit to one of the large printing machinery factories in Chicago, a few days ago, where 800 men are usually employed, disclosed the fact that the force had been reduced to 300. What is true of this shop, is true of others, in the same line, which simply means that fifty per cent of these men have been obliged to find other employment or be idle.

American labor is vitally interested in a protective tariff. It is the one thing that shuts out competition with the pauper labor of the old world, and while some of our industries may be over-protected, it is better to suffer some injustice, on this account, than to throw down the bars to foreign competition.

RAILWAY RECEIPTS AND EXPENSES FOR SEPTEMBER.

"The business of the railways for September, while showing a considerable improvement over that of September 1911, does not maintain the rate of increase set by the record-breaking month of August. The total net operating revenue of 90 per cent of the steam railways increased $5,595,840 for September, while the increase for August was $13,865,622. This increase in net operating revenue was at the rate of $21 per mile of line for the month or at the rate of 70 cents per mile of line per day.

"The total operating revenues per mile of line for the month increased 6.5 per cent, the operating expenses 7.3 per cent and the net operating revenue 5.1 per cent.

"The foregoing statistics are from the summary made by the Bureau of Railway Economics from the reports of the railways to the Interstate Commerce Commission. A special committee of the railways having headquarters in Chicago reports that bills now pending in the Federal Congress providing for an increase in the number of employees of the railways and for the rapid substitution of steel for wooden equipment will, if enacted, place the railways under an additional expense of approximately $12,000,000 per annum for the former, and a total expense of $632,746,000 for the latter purpose. Without compulsion, the railways in the course of three years have increased their steel equipment 750 per cent and their steel under-frame equipment 256 per cent."

While these figures show a liberal volume of business, it will be noticed that expenses are in proportion, while the demand for betterments, to meet legal requirements presents a problem not yet solved. The railroads of the country are the target for all sorts of regulation, both state and federal, and many of these requirements are burdensome.

The well-to-do farmers of Minnesota are borrowing money of local banks and holding their grain for better prices. This policy has relieved the railroads to some extent, and the supply of cars to move the crop has been equal to the demand. It also speaks well for the prosperity of the northwestern farmer.

The active demand for money, in the legitimate channels of trade, is a healthy indication, and while it has stiffened interest rates, there is no shortage. The volume of business in many lines is heavy, and the outlook is promising.

GOES TO CARLSBAD FOR RADIUM CURE

Abbas Hilmi II.

There was great surprise in Carlsbad, Bohemia, the other day when Abbas Hilmi II, Khedive of Egypt, arrived with an extensive suite and announced that he intended to take the radium cure at St. Joachimsthal, a nearby town. The surprise was that he should come from his warm native land into a temperature ranging down to within ten degrees of zero and that after the season is past.

The Khedive would attract attention anywhere, not only because he is the ruler of Egypt, but for the reason that he won the hand of a Christian lady of a noble Austrian family.

The Cold Sponge. While the cold plunge should only be indulged in by those who are physically very robust, the cold sponge bath can be indulged in by all. It is especially refreshing after getting home from work, and if accompanied by a change of clothing and a short rest on the back will make you over new for the evening.

J. F. SCHOOFF*Real Meaning of Cross.

It is said that the signature of a cross, much used on old documents, is often misunderstood to mean ignorance on the part of the signer. It was sometimes due to inability to write, but quite as often among the Saxons it was an attestation of good faith, a form of oath that the statement was true. It was often required, of the signer that he add his oath to his name; and the cross was used as often in this sense as because the man could not write.—Exchange.

What the world needs is more day-to-day living; starting in the morning with fresh, clear ideals for that day, and seeking to live that day, and each successive hour and moment of that day, as if it were all time and all eternity. Know More About Electricity.
During ten years the output of the electric generating plants has nearly tripled, but the number of accidents has remained the same. An increase would be naturally looked for, but this seems to indicate that many of the accidents of the earlier years were due to ignorance or carelessness, which is now avoided by a greater knowledge of the use of electricity and electrical machinery.

CLOSING ARGUMENTS IN BAIRD VS. CARLE

$100,000 Damage Suit for Alleged Alienation of Wife's Affections Will Go to Jury Today.

Arguments to the jury were made by counsel for plaintiff and for the defendant in the case of Arthur A. Baird vs. Norman L. Carle, an action for $100,000 for the alleged alienation of the plaintiff's wife's affections, in the circuit court this afternoon.

The plaintiff was called to the stand for a few moments at the opening of court at one-thirty. Then both sides rested their cases and Judge Grimm limited the time of each side in addressing the jury to an hour and fifty-five minutes.

Attorney Edgar L. Wood for Baird gave the opening plea for the plaintiff. He dwelt at some length on the facts as presented in the testimony in an attempt to make clear that it was through the defendant, Mr. Carle, that the separation occurred. At the close of his address shortly before three o'clock, the court ordered a short recess. Following the recess Attorney M. G. Jeffris spoke for the defendant. Mr. Pierce closed the case for the plaintiff.

SENTENCED TO TWO YEARS IN PRISON

Jay Brewer Waives Examination and Pleads Guilty to Stealing Watch From Edward Arneson.

Jay Brewer, arrested Wednesday morning on a warrant charging him with the larceny of a watch from the person of Edward Arneson, entered a plea of guilty to the charge before Judge Fifield in the municipal court this morning and was sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the state's prison at Waupun. The maximum sentence permissible for an offense of this kind is seven years. When asked by the judge whether he had anything to say before sentence was passed upon him he said that he must have been very much intoxicated at the time or he would never have committed the crime. Under no other circumstance could he explain his action in letting the theft become known. Brewer said that he had never been arrested before for any offense whatsoever. In view of the fact that he had pleaded guilty and that it was his first offense, Judge Fifield said he would give him a lighter sentence than under other circumstances.

Brewer was arraigned in the municipal court late Wednesday afternoon and asked for an examination. This was set for next Tuesday morning. Meanwhile he changed his mind, decided to waive his examination and filed a petition for immediate trial. He has worked in the neighborhood of Janesville for several years, though he originally came from Brodhead. During the summer and fall he worked with the contractors building county roads.

CELEBRATED GOLDEN WEDDING THURSDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Murphy Celebrated Anniversary of Fifty Years of Wedded Life.

Thanksgiving Day was more than an ordinary occasion for Mr. and Mrs. Michael Murphy, 271 South Franklin street yesterday, for in addition to being the national feast day, it was the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding, and the occasion was celebrated by them in a most appropriate manner. A reunion of the family was held at the home yesterday and last evening from five until nine o'clock, a reception was held at which relatives and friends to the number of twenty-five were present. The time was most delightfully spent and a supper was served. After the meal, music and other social diversions were enjoyed. Among the guests at the reception were several who attended the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, fifty years ago, they being Mrs. Cleferrin, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Delaney and Mrs. Charles Gokey. Mr. Gokey, who played at the wedding, also played at the reception. Last night, Mr. and Mrs. Murphy received some very beautiful gifts as tokens of remembrance.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Murphy are long-time residents of the city, having moved here from Johnson Center where they spent the first three years of their married life. Both are enjoying the best of health, and Mr. Murphy, who is seventy-four years of age, is very hale and hearty for a man of his years. Mrs. Murphy is sixty-nine years old. She was born in Belgreen, Ontario, of Cork, Ireland, June 14, 1838. Mrs. Murphy was born in Hartford, Conn., and came to this city when fifteen years of age.

The members of the family present for the celebration yesterday were: Miss Sarah Murphy, E. J. Murphy and J. A. Murphy of this city, and Mrs. J. J. Bark of Rochelle, Ill.; the children; and five grandchildren, Hazel, Vera, LaRue, Addison and Sara Bark of Rochelle.

At the Junction

Julian Grove, burdened with a heavy suitcase and an humbled pride, descended the steps of the yellow day-coach that formed half of the only train on the Lindon Valley road. He sat himself on an unused baggage truck to wait until the south-bound train should come along.

Julian preferred the winter sunlight and the crisp air to the lifeless heat of the big stove and the reek of many bodies. He was going humbly to confess his faults, and he wanted to keep clear headed that they might remain fresh in his mind.

He felt that he needed to be watchful, for in his heart he believed the faults to be few. There was grave danger that he might forget again that he was the offender, and take the same attitude of injured dignity that had caused Lottie Maynard to so hurrying back to the city with the declaration that when he came to his senses she might be ready to talk to him again.

There was an accent on the "might" that left the matter in doubt, and Julian felt that it behooved him to keep vividly in mind what Lottie declared to be his offenses.

Mentally Julian recited the catechism of his offenses, punctuating his self-examination with appropriate remarks concerning a train that was two hours late. He was still occupied with this task when a distant whistle sounded, and the waiting passengers hurried from the station to the platform. There was some grumbling when it was seen that this was only a slow train from the south instead of the desired south-bound, but they lined up along the platform to watch the arrival of the few passengers who were making a change. Then they hurried back to the warmth of the waiting room.

Only one girl remained behind to walk briskly up and down the platform. With a glad cry of surprise Julian hurried toward her.

"What are you doing here, Lottie?" he asked, as he took her hand in his. "Where are you going?" she countered.

"I was running down to town to see you," he explained. "And to think of finding you here, on your way to Lindon."

"I was not going to Lindon," declared the girl. "I was going on, but somehow I stepped off the train through habit, and the train went on without me."

"I was hoping that you were coming back to me," he said tenderly, but Lottie tossed her head.

"I told you that when you were ready to admit that you were at fault, that you might write, and that then perhaps I would come. You don't suppose that I would change my mind, do you?"

"No such luck," he admitted dimly. "That was why I was coming to you."

"To apologize?" she demanded, and Julian nodded his head.

A gleam of triumph flashed into Lottie's eyes, but she was not to be won so easily. She had very pronounced ideas on the proper way of handling the man she was supposed to marry, and now that he was penitent, she was in no hurry to make the sweet surrender that Julian sought.

"I suppose you are saying that just because you want to make up," she declared judicially. "I don't know that it should count."

"You said that when I would admit that I was in the wrong you would be my friend again," reminded Julian.

"But what's the use of admitting that you are wrong, when you don't mean it?" argued Lottie. "You'll say the same things again the first time that you want to be nasty."

"Don't you believe it," advised Julian with convincing emphasis. "If you would only know how utterly miserable I have been since you went back to town! That was why I decided to come, instead of writing."

"And almost missed me," supplied Lottie. "I think, Julian, that I'll make my visit, and in the meantime think about coming to Lindon on the way back."

Julian's face darkened. "I wish you'd make up now," he pleaded. "The fact that we met each other here at the Junction proves that it was meant by fate that we should be friends again."

For a moment the girl hesitated. She had meant to keep Julian on the anxious seat for a few weeks, but now that he was coming, penitent and conquered, she felt that perhaps it would be well to surrender before he should again change his mind. The patent leather tip of her shoe dug into the snow.

"It does seem a little like the working of fate," she admitted. "Here I go out of town to visit in Peltonville, and you are on your way to town to see me. You are waiting at the Junction for a train that is late and I am left behind by my train."

"Then accept the omen and say that you will make up," he urged. "We can go back to town and pick out the ring and then we'll come back to Lindon and tell the folks."

For another tense moment Lottie hesitated, then she nodded and Julian gave a shout of joy.

"There's the whistle of our train," he cried. "I'll hurry in and get you a ticket back to town."

"I'm glad that he didn't know that I was on my way to give in," said Lottie half aloud. "It will be hard enough, anyway, to manage him without letting him know that."

TODAY'S EDGERTON NEWS

CHRISTMAS STAMP CAMPAIGN STARTED

Ladies in Charge of Sale at Edgerton Plan for Season's Work—Other News.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Edgerton, Nov. 29.—The national-wide campaign for the sale of Red Cross seals in an effort to raise funds for the carrying on of the noble work of the Anti-Tuberculosis association, will start on Friday, November 29, and continue until after Christmas. Everywhere the little seal will be on sale and the work done by the association merits the support given it through the funds raised by the sale of the seals.

The great white plague is no respecter of persons and homes of the poor and rich alike suffer the ravages of the dreaded disease. The one great, hopeful fact is that tuberculosis is curable. But it will require a big fight and assistance of the people to win the final victory. Last year there were sold in Edgerton over 20,000 stamps and half of the sum raised was retained for use in the city. A report was recently given of what was accomplished with that money. Last year Edgerton only lacked a small sum in leading the sale of seals of cities in its class. A $25 larger sale would have won for use in the schools or other public places a handsome piano. The Edgerton ladies will visit the business places in regard to the placing of the seals this year.

Early Welfare Work.

The "sick fund" among factory employees was known as far back as the first quarter of the nineteenth century, a manufacturing company at Dover having established it for the benefit of employees. A hospital for factory operatives was established in Lowell in 1833. The charges were $4 a week for the men and $3 for the women. If they were not able to pay, the employing corporation became responsible.

GALBRAITH RETURNS FROM ALBERTA TOUR

Janesville Man One of Lecturers to Canadians on Value of Livestock Raising.

Alexander Galbraith has returned from an extended trip through the province of Alberta in northwestern Canada where he was a member of a party of lecturers sent out on a special train by the provincial government to instruct the farmers in the value of livestock raising. The train consisted of nine cars carrying draft horses, beef and dairy cattle, one car of poultry and one car of seeds and weeds with passenger accommodations for the ten livestock experts of which Mr. Galbraith was one. He was the only man from the states who took the trip as the other men were all Canadians, most of them coming from the eastern sections. Mr. Galbraith lectured on draft horses.

A total of fifty-nine stops were made in the tour with many exhibitions of stock and with talks and discourses at each place.

The object of the expedition was to interest the farmers of the region in stock raising and mixed farming in preference to exclusively grain raising which has depleted the soil to a serious extent. Stock is badly needed to restore the fertility. Mr. Galbraith says that the province is well adapted to raising of stock as the climate is much warmer than some of the other provinces of the north-west. The winters are not severe as Chinook winds materially temper the weather and the Rocky mountains offer protection.

Mr. Galbraith will be in Chicago tomorrow from the opening of the international livestock exhibition and at which he will act as examiner for students of 14 agricultural colleges of this country and Canada to whom examinations are given on the first day of the show.

A majority of the members of the county board, the county officers, as well as a large delegation of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Hon. S. S. Jones of Milton, who is in very poor health. There are also five grandchildren.

"TESS OF STORM COUNTRY" AT THEATRE YESTERDAY.

Drama of the Cayuga Country Was Presented at Matinee and Evening Performances.

"Tess of the Storm Country," dramatized from the book of the same name by Grace Miller White, was presented at the Myers Theater Thanksgiving day at matinee and evening performances. The audience which greeted the production were fair-sized, and the play seemed to strike a popular chord. The play is quite melodramatic in parts and some of the situations are quite tense, but throughout the interest of the audience is held. The heroine of the story is an ignorant girl of the Cayuga country, the daughter of a fisherman. She falls in love with Frederick Graves, a minister and the son of a wealthy politician, and this love changes her from a rather boyish maiden of nondescript appearance to one more attractive in appearance and manners. Incidentally there is the plot whereby the father is found guilty of the murder of a game warden, but later his innocence is proven and the real culprit punished, and other parts of the plot by which Tess is vindicated of the alleged wrongdoing, for which she bore the burden of shame for another. Marguerite Leasure took the part of Tess and Frank Seay, the part of Frederick Graves, the minister-hero of the story. Other roles were well portrayed and the scenic effects were good.

STUDY THIS MAP IF YOU INTEND TAKING ADVANTAGE OF UNCLE SAM'S PARCEL-POST SYSTEM.

Map showing Parcel Post Zone System.

Although the new parcels post law goes into effect the first of January, comparatively few persons understand its provisions. Perhaps this accounts for Uncle Sam's recent activity in preparing a parcels post map and scattering copies of it broadcast over the country.

Uncle Sam's map is very much like the one shown above. Its most noticeable feature is the division of the country into zones.

Now, you have doubtless heard of the zone system in connection with the parcels post and wondered what it meant. A glance at Uncle Sam's map will show you, though to completely understand it you may have to imagine yourself as living at the national capital.

The map shows clearly the relation of each zone to the city of Washington. Uncle Sam might have drawn a map showing the relation of each zone to the city of Kokomo and it would have been just as good for illustrative purposes.

The map shows clearly the relation of each zone to the city of Washington. Uncle Sam might have drawn a map showing the relation of each zone to the city of Kokomo and it would have been just as good for illustrative purposes.

The zone marked one on the map has a radius of fifty miles; zone two includes the area outside of zone one for a radius of 100 miles; zone three the area outside of zone two for a radius of 150 miles; zone four the area outside of zone three for a radius of 200 miles; zone five the area outside of zone four for a radius of 250 miles; zone six the area outside of zone five for a radius of 300 miles; zone seven the area outside of zone six for a radius of 350 miles; zone eight the area outside of zone seven for a radius of 400 miles; zone nine the area outside of zone eight for a radius of 450 miles; zone ten the area outside of zone nine for a radius of 500 miles; zone eleven the area outside of zone ten for a radius of 550 miles; zone twelve the area outside of zone eleven for a radius of 600 miles; zone thirteen the area outside of zone twelve for a radius of 650 miles; zone fourteen the area outside of zone thirteen for a radius of 700 miles; zone fifteen the area outside of zone fourteen for a radius of 750 miles; zone sixteen the area outside of zone fifteen for a radius of 800 miles; zone seventeen the area outside of zone sixteen for a radius of 850 miles; zone eighteen the area outside of zone seventeen for a radius of 900 miles; zone nineteen the area outside of zone eighteen for a radius of 950 miles; zone twenty the area outside of zone nineteen for a radius of 1,000 miles.

There are left to mourn the passing of Mr. Jones, his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Clayton Stoney of Clinton, three sisters, Mrs. Herbert Mayberry of Missouri, Mrs. George Tuttle of South Dakota and Mrs. Diana Barker of Clinton and one brother, Dr. John W. Jones of Milton, who is in very poor health. There are also five grandchildren.

HARD ROW FOR THIS PUG TO HOE IN U. S.

Harry Thomas.

Harry Thomas, the clever British lightweight, who will try conclusions with Jimmy Duffy of Lockport, N. Y., at Cleveland on December 15, has had a hard row to hoe in the United States. When he first came to this country two years ago he was called upon to meet two tough propositions in Pal Moore and Knockout Brown. He lost in both cases. Since then he has lost but two decisions, one to Jack White of Chicago, and one to Jimmy Duffy.

HERD OF HOLSTEINS FROM THE FAR WEST GOES TO CHICAGO AND WINS MANY FIRST PRIZES IN THE NATIONAL DAIRY SHOW.

Chicago.—The far west made its first appearance at a national dairy show in this city recently, when the state of Washington was represented by probably the greatest herd of Holstein cattle ever led into the ring by one exhibitor. Smit hand Mills, of Spokane, Wash., came across the Rockies with 38 head of black and white cattle and swept the boards at the national dairy show.

per day, than the average laboring man. This cow, Hazlewood Angle De Kol, produced 45½ quarts of milk per day, 34.9 pounds of butter in seven days when only three years old. In other words, she earns more per day than does the average working man, and nearly as much as two common laborers.

An aged cow of this herd has a record of giving 60 quarts of milk per day for a period of seven days. At seven cents a quart, the price for which milk usually sells in the city, this cow earned $4.20 per day.

With this herd of cattle raised on land that ten years ago was covered with brush, this firm of young western dairymen entered the national dairy show here and won 22 premiums, eight second awards, ten third prizes and ten other premiums. This herd also presented the show with its junior champion bull, junior champion cow and grand champion bull.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

COLD BATHS AND DISAGREEABLE DUTIES.

A FRIEND of mine had been trying to make up her mind to pursue a certain course of action which she felt was her duty but which was very unpleasant to her. From day to day she had put off any action in the hope that something would happen to render it unnecessary for her to make the sacrifice involved. And she was very unhappy.

The other day I met her and was surprised to be greeted in a thoroughly cheerful voice and to look into a serene and happy face.

"Oh," I said, "I know things have come out all right for you. Tell me what has happened?"

"Yes," she said, "things have come out all right, but nothing has happened. It's simply that I've made up my mind to give up struggling and fighting and just do what I ought to do. I decided that way before I went to sleep that night I was talking to you, and I've felt happier since than I have for weeks. And do you know, I don't think it's going to be half bad after all."

If there is any one among my reader-friends who is struggling against some disagreeable duty, some difficult course of action, I wish he could have seen that girl's serene face and heard her happy voice as she told me of her simple solution of her difficulties.

I am sure he would begin to wonder if he, too, might not find serenity and peace by ceasing to struggle for some other way out and simply starting to do whatever it was he dreaded.

Did you ever take a cold bath on a winter morning? If you have, you know that it is the plunge that is disagreeable, not the bath itself. Once you have taken that much-dreaded jump into the cold tub you are all right—but Oh how hard it is to make that plunge!

And so it often is with unpleasant tasks and duties—the actual doing isn't so bad, it's dreading them, struggling against them, nervously yourself to take the plunge and then running away from it, that takes so much effort and makes you so miserable and unhappy.

Try it my friend. Stop struggling; stop hoping for something to happen that will make it unnecessary to face that disagreeable duty; make up your mind that you are going to do it; burn your bridges behind you so that you can't get back to that miserable state of indecision, and then see if the blessed peace and serenity that comes to you isn't a far happier state of mind that you have known for some time.

It does sound rather like a sermon, doesn't it? But perhaps you'll forgive me if I promise to be more careful in the future.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Gitchell Kirk

on the street, below crowds are thronging the restaurant for luncheon. My helper and secretary have gone their respective ways for their noon-day meal and when they return I, too, will depart on the same errand.

The question arises: "How many of the great throng of workers, and of those in the home also, know anything about the food they eat or why they eat?"

They will tell you they eat because they are hungry and most of them have, in all probability, never known what hunger really is.

It has come time, to eat and—we eat. To eat the food which helps to build the body rather than clog and destroy, that brightens the eyes, clears the skin, keeps us young, active, clear-headed and capable, that is another matter.

To tell people what to eat and when to eat is treading on not only dangerous, but obstinate, thankless ground. No one wishes to be told what to eat any more than children enjoy being told it is bed time, but we have learned that to eat what ever just "tastes good" without regard to the future means we pay the price in more ways than one—sometimes with money, sometimes with ill-health or both and rarely ever can either be recovered when once lost.

The pendulum is swinging wide, however, on the food question. It is the desire of most people to be well.

A few years ago, a man said to me, "I would not give up as many things as you do to be well. I want a good time, and to enjoy life." I tried to assure him I was not only perfectly well, but happy too. I recently met him on the street and remarked upon his changed appearance and how well he looked. He replied, "Yes, I had to come to it, I thought I could eat and drink anything, but I found the machinery was refusing to work and I could not attend to business as I should."

"Now, I am eating the food which helps to develop both brain and body, and I never felt better in my life."

Another business man, who was the thinking power in a large concern, came to me for some help for headaches. After going over his food carefully—and when he had these headaches—I found that heavy meat luncheons, rich gravies, etc., were the usual noon-day meal, and the headaches usually followed in the afternoon. I gave him menus for luncheons and other meals, and he said: "Do you expect to starve me?" He went on in his own way for two years and then, coming into our cooking school one day, said: "I feel that I owe it to you to tell you that I am paying one of the highest-priced doctors in town for telling me of the same things to eat you did two years ago. If I had only followed your advice then, I should not have had these years of suffering."

There are many who would eat the right foods if they knew what they were, and there are others doing better than they are themselves aware. There are still others who would always find it "too much trouble" to cook the right foods. Of this class, I would say that we could write on till our fingers grow weary, and they may read until their eyes grow dim, but if it is not with the determination of doing, then valuable space in newspapers and magazines had better be used for other subjects, not ours.

If there is any medicinal value at all in foods, especially so far as purifying the system and keeping it so, is concerned, then every man, woman and child should be familiar with it. We don't take our watches and open them up to their time, beautiful works and poke sand, seeds and buttons into them and expect them to keep time for us; but that is just what most men, women and children are doing to their bodies, the most wonderful works in existence, and then wonder why they cannot keep well, strong and active. They imagine they are growing, old when they cannot think and act quickly and clearly in their business. All they need is right food for an active liver and good digestion—for as a man thinks and eats, so he is.

There is no doubt in thinking minds today but that vegetables should play a large part in the every-day menus. I may work at my desk and my neighbor out of doors; consequently she and the baseball player or athlete need more hearty vegetables, such as onions, cabbage, beans, peas, lentils, etc., and substantial steamed fruit puddings and some pie and pastry made with a good vegetable fat; foods in fact, of quality and quantity which are not digested quickly, but have "staying" qualities.

Growing boys, from twelve to eighteen, who are exercising constantly in the open air, require much the same type of food with plenty of bread and butter with a good sprinkling of sugar occasionally, as a warmth and energy producer.

The man or woman doing sedentary work requires food which will digest more quickly and have the blood free for the work of the brain—thin cream soups, nut loaf, salads with all kinds of green vegetables, rice, fruits and light desserts.

The girl in the high school and the mother in the home, generally should have the same as above with added vegetables for the mother.

The grandmother and the four-year-old require about the same amount and kinds of foods, plenty of eggs, light soups, well-cooked cereals, more rice than potatoes and stale bread or toast with evaporated fruits.

Summing it all up, I would say, select and eat the kinds of foods that give health, strength and beauty, and these in turn affect the mental, moral and intellectual side of our natures. Feed the body, mind and soul and we will then develop the highest type of man or woman.

INDULGENCE OF APPETITE.

Appetite is a subjective condition; and it must not be more controlled entirely by reason than love, religion, or poetry; but love without reason is abandon, poetry without reason is fancy, religion without reason is fanaticism; and appetite without reason is gluttony. The desires should be given free rein to run in those channels which the reason approves, for soul repression is harmful. The subjective desires should be directed by suggestion, and such suggestion is needed most of all by the appetite for food and drink. It is good, however, to yield occasionally to a wayward appetite and indulge, temporarily, the race longing for "the flesh pots of Egypt" or the quail of the desert till the prodigal is glad to return to the manna and apples of the gods.

The Orchid Door to Society

WHEN we ponder some of our actions, and judging therefrom, the purpose we ascribe to life, we do not seem to be so tremendously advanced and civilized as we fondly like to believe we are, do we? Society is now dusting its drawing rooms, and looking over its gowns and tiaras, preparatory to swinging open its doors for another season. Indeed, here and there in some houses, the doors have already opened, and those bidden to come have stepped forth from limousines, drunk a cup of tea, left cards, and whirled away.

But some there are looking anxiously at various great portals and wondering if they will be welcomed within; or if they know they will not be bidden as frequently as they wish, planning how they may compel the doors to swing open, whenever they knock.

And these consider carefully various roads that lead to the wished-for haven. And after due consideration, many decide upon the orchid route as being a direct and sure highway to the destination desired.

And so these who decide upon this plan, tie themselves to a fashionable florist, and thence go impressive boxes of delicate air blossoms to the popular debutante, or great society lady; whose threshold they wish frequently to cross.

Several hundred dollars a week is a mere bagatelle for those entering society by the orchid route to spend for these blossoms. It is costly traveling, far more so than by the speediest and most luxurious limited. But it is very apt to bring them successfully to their journey's end, if their bank account holds out, or whoever bank account they may draw upon. One man is in jail now for making use of somebody else's bank account for his trip along the orchid route. But then, another fellow won a millionaires' and an entrance into one of New York's most exclusive sets, via the orchid route. So you see, it works all ways. And those anxious to get in take a chance.

But considering that we live in the twentieth century, and, as has been said, look upon ourselves as having brain cells of a superior kind, do not such proceedings seem exceedingly puerile? Ought there not to be some other standards for admission or non-admission to these guarded precincts of society? Should not a debutante or a society matron demand that a man present some more worthy passport than a bunch of orchids, purchased by reason of a flourishing bank account, at the highest-priced florist's?

The debutante tea, it seems at this season, we must have with us. Also the large ball and the formal dinner. We have not yet passed these things by, in our outward march. But should not those who are conducting them require something of more moment as the credentials of entrance than a costly bunch of orchids which any one may buy who has the price? Should not other standards that will make for a healthier social life be set?

And herein can the debutante from her butterfly realm stretch out an influential hand. If she will require from those she admits to her favor something of more real worth than, figuratively speaking, a bunch of orchids, she will be helping to build a fairer social edifice.

Barbara Boyd.

A DAY WITH LEFT-OVERS.

Chop cold roast lamb, season with salt and put into a buttered baking dish; cover with a cup of seasoned cooked macaroni. Beat three eggs slightly, add a cup and a half of milk, pour over the mixture and bake in a slow oven.

Hot Potato Salad.—Cook two cups of half-inch cubes of potatoes; drain and pour over the following dressing: Mix together a half cup of celery cut fine, two slices of lemon, two tablespoonsful of chopped onion, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, four tablespoonsful of olive oil, pepper and salt to taste. Heat until boiling hot and serve at once.

Water Melon Balls.—Any water melon that is left over may be scooped out into balls, using a vegetable cutter, or if this is not at hand a tablespoon will do, making oval-shaped pieces. Chill and serve very cold.

Hasty Blueberry Pudding.—Butter four or five slices of bread on both sides, place in individual sauce dishes, grate a little nutmeg over the slices and pour over canned berries that have been heated hot.

When preserving peaches, use the broken pieces that are not perfect enough, for a spiced sauce. Add vinegar, spices and brown sugar and cook until of the right consistency.

When there is a little cold chicken, but not enough for a dish, add an equal quantity of cold boiled ham, both chopped fine. Mix together with a rich, well-seasoned white sauce and serve on buttered toast as a luncheon or supper dish.

Any combination of cold meat may be used with the sauce, varying the flavor by using chopped green peppers or onions.

Over-Night Relief
For Constipation

A Small Dose on Retiring and You Are Well and Happy by Morning.

It is only natural that the simplest of ailments should be the most general, and so we have a whole nation suffering from constipation and indigestion, for they are closely allied. But common as constipation is many people do not seem to know they have it. They will complain of headache, drowsiness or biliousness, all unconscious of the cause of the trouble.

You should have a full and free movement at least once a day. If you pass a day you are constipated, and the result will be that you will catch a cold easily or have a more serious ailment. To cure the constipation and forestall still graver trouble take a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night before retiring and by morning relief will come, without disturbance from sleep or any inconvenience.

Legions of people use it regularly in such emergencies, some of them formerly chronic invalids who have suffered from constipation all their lives. Mrs. Elizabeth Terrill, Lamar, Ind., and Mr. Alonzo Collins, Geneseo, Ill., and many others will tell you that they have tried most things recommended for this purpose, but have found Syrup Pepsin the only one always reliable. A bottle can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar; the latter size being bought by families already familiar with its merits.

Keystones to Success.

"The only help toward success that I have ever found worth while are, first, to have a purpose and then a willingness to work for it. That is the main thing. Coincident must be a realization of the absolute necessity of good health and an absorbing interest or hobby entirely different from one's pursuits."—Edward Bok, in the Strand.

Compasses in Sleeping Rooms.

It is a curious fact that no Japanese ever sleeps with his head to the north. The reason is that the dead in Japan are always buried with their heads in that direction. Consequently, in the sleeping rooms of many of the private houses of Japan, not to speak of hotels in larger cities, a diagram of the points of the compass is conspicuously posted on the ceiling for the information of guests.—The Sunday Magazine.

ANNOUNCES SERMON TOPICS FOR MONTH OF DECEMBER

The Rev. J. W. Laughlin, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Has List Published.

I will begin a series of sermons next Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church on "The Religion of Jesus and the Individual," which will continue through the month of December. These sermons will deal with questions which frequently bother earnest Christian people and with matters of interest to all thoughtful persons. This series is preparatory to another which I wish to preach early in the New Year on "Christianity and Society." Recognizing that we are passing through a period of social and industrial unrest many persons are asking what part our religion is to play in removing the evils incident to the capitalistic system.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE

AT REST.

While wandering through a village cemetery not long ago I stopped at the graveside of a woman whom I had known. On her tombstone were graven the words:

"At Rest."

Verily, I said to myself, it is high time and I hope it is so with her. For nearly fifty years this woman had cooked and sewed and scrubbed and patched for a big family. Occasionally when there were thrashers or during corn gathering she would have some help, but mostly not.

The family was prosperous. Her husband owned one of the largest and best farms of the neighborhood. He was a pusher of work and very successful as a farmer and stock breeder. And yet—

For a quarter of a century, to my personal knowledge, the woman and her daughters carried the water for domestic purposes from a pump more than 100 feet away from the kitchen.

They were rich. The soil of the farm was fertile and well nourished by good farming methods and the crops were bumper crops. Every year the surplus earnings grew. But there were no conveniences provided for the woman of the household. There was no sink in the kitchen, and, as for a bathroom or furnace or a lighting system, there was no thought of spending money for such luxuries.

They were rich, but—The woman did not have the crimmest necessities of modern life. The money went to buy more land, to raise more corn, to feed more hogs, to get more money to buy more land.

"At Rest."

Faith, she had earned it! For years she lived the life of hard labor, want and deprivation so that her husband, when she died, might have 1,000 acres.

Did she sometimes hunger for the better things of life? Did she sometimes sigh for the little pleasures and courtesies and kindnesses denied her? Or was her woman's soul calloused by greed?

Subordinating the best that was in her, she labored on like some slave until, lean, cadaverous and wrinkled, she dropped into her grave.

On a tomb over the body of a soldier at Padua is graven the legend: "Here he, who never rested, rests."

The same legend might have been put upon the gravestone of the rich old woman of the farm.

Early Matches.
The earliest matches, made were lighted not by friction, but by means of striking fire with a flint and steel in the tinder. The next kind were dipped in chloride of potash, which took fire when touched with sulphuric acid. A small vial of sulphuric acid accompanied each box of matches sold.

The Exception.
Some people expect one to believe in their veracity except when they depreciate themselves.

And So It Goes in Life.
"A girl," remarks Mack Cretcher, "must have dolls and ribbons and lots of fancy things to play with. A boy can have a pretty good time with nothing but a toad, a grasshopper and a few angle worms."

"A MODERN EVE" IS A MUSICAL DELIGHT

Star Cast in Mort Singer's Latest Success Pleases Packed House at Myers Wednesday Night.

Lively, sparkling, tuneful music sung by star musical comedy actors, and real comedy which calls for actual laughter and not bored smiles, combine to make Mort Singer's latest success, "A Modern Eve," one of the most pleasing attractions of the exceptional list which has been offered at the Myers theatre this season. There was a packed house to see this delightful production on Wednesday evening. There was not a person present who did not ache with laughter at the antics of Mr. Frank Deshon as the hen-pecked husband of a fanatical woman's-rights wife; there was none who did not applaud liberally at the delightful singing of Miss Ruth Peebles who possesses one of the finest soprano voices of any musical comedy star; and there was none who did not leave the house humming "Good-bye Everybody," or several other of the numerous song hits.

There is a thread of a pleasing story running through "A Modern Eve" just enough to give an opportunity for real comedy lines and situations. The Cascardi family is composed of the wife and mother who rules the household and who has high ideas of the equality of woman, two beautiful daughters who are imbued with the mother's teachings as to superiority over man, and lastly the husband and father who stays in the kitchen, tends to the house and knits in between times. Mr. Deshon in the latter part was irresistible in his comedy. His flirtations with the Baroness, which Miss Lee Johnston, his capers, and sly actions at his wife's expense, combined with his general appearance and make-up, was all that could be desired in such a role.

Miss George Drew Mendum as the wife was another comedy character of strength. In the divorce court scene especially she did excellent work and shared in the applause.

Miss Ruth Peebles in the role of beautiful Renee was sweet and charming. Her singing was always a treat whether in the coy "Hello Sweetheart" or in the more serious and dreamy "You're Some Lonesome Moon Tonight," and "Is the Girl You Married Still the Girl You Love?"

Miss Maude Potter as Camille was the other feminine character of importance and sang and acted with grace and cleverness. She sang "Good-bye Everybody," the dashing song hit of the play with delightful expression.

Mr. Frederick Santley as the lover and husband of Renee was strong actor and a most graceful dancer. Mr. William Kent as Dickey was also a star and made a pleasing appearance.

The members of the chorus were comely and graceful and danced cleverly and well. Their singing had excellent volume and tone. The chorus men performed with ease and did creditable work.

REVIVAL SERVICES AT THE UNITED BRETHREN CHURCH.

Rev. J. Walter Gibson Who is Assisting in Revival, to Speak Again Tonight.

Best to Avoid "Scenes."
A clever woman never makes a scene. It isn't politic. A scene that lasts an hour works 14 days' detriment to her appearance.—Elsie Lindtner.

BACKACHE IS A DANGER SIGNAL

Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders, Rheumatism, and Serious Diseases Follow.

There are other symptoms, such as pains in the region of the kidneys, nervousness, dizziness, tired and worn-out feeling, weak bladder, painful, scanty, or urinary troubles, which are just as dangerous, for the slightest kidney derangement if neglected may develop into the deadly Bright's Disease, Dropsy, or Diabetes.

It is not only dangerous, but needless, for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly and surely ends all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for the permanent cure of all forms of kidney, bladder trouble, and rheumatism, than this new scientific preparation, because it removes the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings, cleans out the clogged-up pores, neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and wastes that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter the poison from the blood and drives it out of the system.

Three doses of Croxone a day, for a few days is often all that is ever needed to cure the worst backache or overcome disagreeable urinary disorders, and you can take it with the utmost confidence that nothing on earth will so quickly cure the worst case of kidney, bladder trouble, or rheumatism.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. There is nothing else like it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. An original package costs but a trifle at any first class drug store. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Pumpkin Pies.
Eggs—One cup of sifted pumpkin, one cup of sugar, one cup of sweet milk, one tablespoon flour mixed with a little sweet milk, ginger to taste. Bake in a rich crust.

Without Crust—This is a help in these days of 15-cent-per-pound lard for the mother whose boys say, "Mother, may I leave the crust?" Also for the one whose husband says, "I love pumpkin pie, but my stomach won't stand pastry." Then again for the woman who says, "I would make more pumpkin pies, but lard, eggs and sugar are so high and expensive!"

I usually make six pumpkin pies at a time, but one day my pastry gave out with the fifth pie, so I just greased a pie tin, floured it, put in the filling. Behold! It cut like pumpkin pie, came out of the tin like pumpkin pie, tasted like pumpkin pie and was pumpkin pie without crust.

Recipe. Six cups pumpkin, one teaspoon cinnamon, half teaspoon each of cloves and allspice, six eggs, six heaping teaspoons cornstarch, three scant cups sugar and six or eight cups of milk. I put pumpkin through potato slicer, add rest in order named, moistening cornstarch with part of the milk. This makes six pies. Just grease tins and pour them. When cold they will cut out like pie.

Things Worth Knowing.

Ink stains or iron rust can be easily removed from colored gingham if, after dipping in suds, you take a crystal of oxalic acid and rub the spot until it disappears, then wash well. This will not injure color or fabric.

I have always been bothered drying mittens until this fall, but have found a good way to dry them and not have them in any danger of getting burned. I got a wire dish drainer at the 10-cent counter and hung it over the stove by a wire. Mittens will dry in it a short time and they always know where to find them.

In making baking powder biscuits when in a hurry, instead of getting out rolling pin and board I use paraffin paper—the heavy kind which comes in biscuit boxes. Place dough on paper, pat out to right size with hands, then cut out; saves labor and time.

If you want any Wash Day goods—you'd better not let this chance slip by—you can save a lot of money. If you buy tomorrow. And after this sale, the manufacturers, Geuder, Paetsche & Frey Co., Milwaukee, won't supply us with more Cream City Ware to sell at these prices. ## FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, November 29, 1872.—Prompt Action of the Council: Under the earnest efforts of the common council and the fire department committee of that body there are hopeful indications that our fire department will speedily be placed in an effective condition. Necessary repairs have been made at the engine house; the large alarm bell ordered; the committee instructed to purchase more hose and a supply of leather buckets; approaches to the river at different points ordered, to be constructed; hose-drying racks are to be erected in the engine houses; the subordinates in the department have been ordered to keep everything in readiness for immediate use in case of fire; and last, but not least, the chief has been made a member of the fire department committee.

Breaking Street Lamps: The common council, at its meeting on Wednesday night, voted a reward of twenty-five dollars for information sufficient to lead to the conviction of any person or persons guilty of breaking street lamps. If this doesn't serve to arrest the wholesale destruction of the glass plates which enclose the lamps, their only alternative will be to shut off the gas from the streets and give up the attempt to maintain street lights. But a few months ago the lamps were all repaired at a considerable expense; but now they are in a worse condition than when those repairs were instituted.

Erief Items: Overland mails are rather irregular, but the drivers do better than would be expected with sick horses.

The epilepsy caused a provoking scarcity of Thanksgiving turkeys. An impatient fire at the Dearborn house at an early hour this morning frightened the inmates, but did no damage.

he got grouchy, mean and sore, because he wasn't drawing more. He thought if he resigned his job his boss would wait around and sob and beg him for a while to stay, and doubtless give him double pay. And so, in haughty tones he told his Jabez that his feet were cold. "My services are in demand; good jobs await on every hand. You don't fear, appreciate, how much I've done to make you great." This Winkler made his little spiel. "I'm glad you quit," said Jabez Beall. "If other days you did quite well, but since your head began to swell you made myself and patrons tired, and I had planned to have you fired." Now Winkler tramps around the town and hints a job, and is turned down, and while his world's a time of gloom, old Jabez's trade is on the boom.

BY WALT MASON.

Young Winkler worked for Jabez Beall, who deals in shoes and linseed meal. For years he was a valued clerk, and Jabez warmly praised his work. And Winkler's friends would often say he would be drawing better pay. He owes his splendid trade to you, oh, what would poor old Jabez do, if you'd decide to flee, the coop? "Would surely leave him in the soup." Young Winkler's head began to swell, so many people stopped to tell him what a honeybird he was, and clapped his back with fervent paws. So Winkler then began to feel he was a bigger man than Beall, and

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

The End

"Up the hill and down the hill
And through the valley, too,
Rushed Colonel Cody—Buffalo Bill—
A-wondering what to do."
"I mean it!" he hissed, and there was madness in his yellowish eyes: "another insult from you and I shall run right over you."
"Ha, ha!" she jeered, "you're too big a coward. I told you I'd make it warm for you, and have I kept my word or haven't I?"
"This is too much!" he screamed. "I shall keep my word, (so) I shall run over you, and if you live half a minute after that it will be a miracle. Ah, yes, you have made it warm for me!"
And with a demoniacal laugh he ran over her.
Silly as it may sound, she was a panacea and he a hump of butter.

IT'S RISKY

IT'S A BIG RISK to hold an auction sale unless it is well advertised. You put up $2000 worth of property for sale; maybe it will bring $2000; maybe $1500; maybe less. It's up to you. It all depends upon how well you advertise it. One that is thoroughly advertised cannot help but be a success. Almost every sale that is advertised in the Gazette brings more than the proprietor expected. You can save a few dollars by trying to get along with a few bills or running a small ad in a paper with little circulation, but how about results? Will you find that you have saved anything when you count your money at the close of the sale? Dare you take chances on $2000 worth of property to save a few dollars at the outset?

"Go West, Young Man."

The name of the person who first put the words "Go west, young man," together in that order has not found place in any record. It matters little, anyhow. The phrase belongs to Horace Greeley, it was his enunciation of it that gave it currency, and any past history of the advice may most properly be neglected.

As Is a Peach.

The Maryland baked peach is a peach and no mistake, and it is enough to have made the mouths of the gods water, to have made Jove pawn his thunder and Neptune his trident for a second helping.—Baltimore Sun.

Appropriate Recreation.

An author, whose work is imaginative, should, for his rest, do something logical, such as playing patience. An accountant, on the other hand, whose mind will run on figures, should not play patience. He should mold figures out of clay or paint or do something artistic.

HIS RISE TO POWER

By HENRY RUSSELL MILLER.

Author of

"The Man Higher Up"

Copyright, 1911, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

As this task was completed Stephen Hampden entered the bank with a pleasant nod in reply to the clerks' respectful greeting. He made his way into the cashier's office.

"Phew!" he whistled, drawing a chair up to the desk. "It's a hot day, isn't it? Have you the options?"

Warren pushed the two piles of documents toward him. At one Hampden merely glanced; the other, "Options Refused," he opened and read rapidly. "E-m-m! All Deer township properties. Why won't they sign?"

"They want cash, not stock, for their coal."

"Did you point out to them the prospective value of the stock and the necessity of being all in one company to prevent price cutting and the opportunity to improve the community by opening up a new business?"

"I did. But we're not trying to improve the community; we're trying to make money for ourselves."

"I'm afraid, Warren, you were the wrong man to send after those options."

"I was," said Warren calmly. "I told you so at first. I'm not a clever talker."

"I don't want to tie up any more cash in this than I have to. How would it work to send John Dunmude after those options? We could make him attorney for us and the company and give him stock. What do you think?"

Warren took several minutes to consider this suggestion. "He can do it if any one can," he said at last. "He is very popular among the farmers. Everybody likes him. I like him, too, though he is always laughing at me."

"Eh? Why does he laugh at you?" Hampden inquired.

"I don't know," answered Warren evenly. "I shall ask him sometime. Shall I send for him?"

"Yes."

Warren opened the door and sent one of his clerks with the message. Then he sat down, staring thoughtfully at the smoke from Hampden's cigar.

Hampden took up a pad and pencil and began to make some calculations.

"He won't do it," Warren said suddenly.

"Why not?" Hampden looked up from his penning.

"He's honest."

"Aren't we honest?" Hampden demanded sharply.

"We're not—sentimental," Warren answered calmly. "He is. We're trying to take advantage—legitimately, of course—of the farmers in a bargain. That's the thing he likes to fight."

"Not at all," Hampden contradicted coldly. "This is a straight business proposition, and I guess he'll not be sentimental when we offer him, say, ten thousand in stock. We can let him have that much without losing control."

"I don't think he'll take it," Warren insisted without warmth. "And he isn't a fool. He doesn't need money. He's the sort that people take to, whether he has it or not. I'm not like that. I've got to have money to get people's respect. You're that kind too."

"Eh?" Hampden stared, half amused, half angered by Warren's matter of fact explanation. Warren was not in the habit of talking of himself. "Turned philosopher, have you? You'd better stick to banking, where you're at home."

A few minutes later John entered the bank. Hampden greeted him cordially.

Warren listened patiently while the other men used up a few minutes in pleasant preliminaries. They came at last to the purpose of John's summons.

"I suppose you've heard of our coal proposition?" Hampden suggested.

"Yes."

"There will be a good deal of legal work in connection with it."

In a few rapid, terse sentences Hampden outlined his plan of organization. Mindful of Warren's prediction and seeing John's face grow gravely dubious he endeavored to make his explanation quite matter of fact.

"Of course," he concluded, "you're familiar with the details. There is nothing new in the plan."

"We don't know much about high finance in New Chelsea. But I read the papers sometimes. It is almost a classic, I should say," John replied.

"Substantially the plan of all promotions," Hampden agreed.

"Let's see if I get you right. You take the options in your own name, agreeing to pay for the coal in stock of your company. Then you agree to turn the properties over to the company for a little more than twice this consideration, out of which you pay the farmers. This gives you control of the company that owns the coal and it hasn't cost you a cent. The money for development and operating you lend the company, taking as security first mortgage bonds." He hesitated, looking directly at Hampden. "That hardly gives the farmers a square deal, does it?"

The pupils of Hampden's eyes contracted suddenly. "Certainly it does," he answered with some emphasis, "since it converts properties that have been eating themselves up in taxes into a producing proposition. I didn't say," he added carelessly, "that your fee ought, in my opinion, to be about $10,000—in stock."

"What how much?"

"The usual legal matters—charter, organization, conveyances and so on. And," casually, "helping us to sign up the Deer township properties."

"They don't like the proposition?"

"They're the only ones who haven't accepted it. They seem to be holding out under the advice of this fellow—Cranshaw, is it?" Warren nodded.

"We think you can swing them into line."

"I see," said John thoughtfully. His brow wrinkled in a troubled frown as he gazed reflectively out at the clerks' sweltering behind the cage. Hampden and Warren waited patiently for his answer.

At last he raised his eyes to Hampden's. "I'm sorry, but I can't do it."

"Why not?" Hampden demanded.

"This fellow Cranshaw happens to be a good deal of a man. He and his neighbors are clients of mine in a small way and friends also. I think. They do me the honor to trust me. I shouldn't care to advise them in this matter."

"Why not?" Hampden demanded again.

"Let us say," John smiled, "that I am in politics and don't want to complicate my vote getting."

"That isn't your reason."

"Well," John said regretfully, "if you will have it I don't see a proposition that I can conscientiously recommend."

"You impeach my honesty?"

"I do not go so far, sir. Honesty is a matter of intent. I think I understand your point of view—that you will convert their idle coal, as you say, into an income property and by starting a new industry will indirectly benefit the whole valley, which is probably true. But the point is that the coal, the one indispensable element in the situation, is theirs, and in return for it they should at least have control."

"The coal has always been there. We furnish the initiative and the brains and the money to make it useful."

"I see that, too. But don't you think initiative of this sort is sometimes—er—overcapitalized?"

"Do you know of any capital that will offer better terms than I do?"

"I do not," John confessed. "And it strikes me," he added gravely, "that you are taking advantage of that fact to gouge—the word slipped out; he corrected himself hastily—"to drive a close bargain with the farmers."

Hampden abruptly straightened up in his chair. "You may stick to 'gouge.' Do I understand that you refuse the job?"

"I have been trying to explain my reasons."

"I'm not deeply concerned with your reasons," Hampden remarked shortly. He picked up a document and pointedly began to peruse it. Observing that John did not at once take the hint, he looked up, nodding carelessly. "Oh! Good morning!"

John rose, flushed under the curt dismissal and went out of the bank.

"I told you so," Warren said.

"Can't you say anything more original than that?" Hampden exclaimed impatiently. Warren couldn't so he held his peace.

"What I'd like to know," Hampden added reflectively, dropping the document, "is why Murchell let him be nominated. A young lawyer who refuses a big fee for sentimental reasons has no place in Murchell's machine." He was talking to himself rather than to Warren.

But this was attacking what had almost attained the sanctity of a tradition, an institution proudly cherished by New Chelsea. "Murchell is a smart man," Warren was moved to protest, "and he likes Dunmude. And maybe John is smart enough to guess that the stock may be worth nothing—eventually."

Hampden looked at him sharply, but Warren's face was as expressionless as that of the soldiers' monument.

"Well," the capitalist remarked philosophically, "it's Murchell's business, not mine."

That evening Katherine was to be found on the terrace. She was looking particularly well, a fact of which she was not altogether unconscious. But she was restless and wandered aimlessly into the library where she found her father busy at his desk on which lay a profusion of papers and blueprints. He nodded abstractedly.

She yawned. "There seems to have been a devastating epidemic. You will kindly proceed to amuse me."

"All this gorgeousness wasted!" She yawned again. "I was rather looking for John Dunmude this evening."

"Hence that gown and that stunning new arrangement of the hair? You're not going to fall in love with an incompetent one horse country lawyer, are you?"

"It is not beyond the bounds of possibility," she laughed. "But is John an incompetent? I don't believe it." (To be continued.)

Religion a Choice of Service

By REV. JAMES M. GRAY, D.D.,
Dean of the Moody Bible Institute,
Chicago

TEXT: "Choose you this day whom ye will serve."—Joshua, 24:15.

These words were spoken by Joshua to the nation of Israel. He is now an old man soon to go the way of all the earth, and he gathers the leaders of the people about him to have them renew their covenant with God. That renewal is practically summed up in the words of the text.

(1) Let us lay emphasis upon the word "serve." Religion is service, whether it be a false religion or the true one that we have in mind.

So far as the abstract question of service is concerned, one neither loses nor gains by accepting Christianity. "Know ye not," says the apostle Paul, "that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey his servants ye are to whom ye obey, whether of sin unto death or of obedience unto righteousness?" There may be a change of masters or a change in the character and the rewards of service, but so far as service itself is concerned, there is no change. When, therefore, one is entreated to take Christ's yoke upon him it is not as if he had never worn a yoke before, but only a question as to whether he would remain in the bonds of iniquity or obey one in the keeping of whose commands there is great reward.

(2) Let us lay emphasis upon "choose." Religion is a matter of choice, for men may serve God or not as they please. Of course he may compel a man to serve him, but ordinarily he does not do this, a man would be merely a machine if he did. This liberty of choice is man's glory and also his peril. As Whittier says: Though God be good, and free be heaven, No force divine can love compel; And though the song of sins forgiven May sound through lowest hell:

The sweet persuasion of his voice Respects thy sanctity of will, He giveth day; thou hast thy choice To walk in darkness still.

(3) Let us lay emphasis upon "you." Judge therefore yourselves, brethren, that ye be not judged of the Lord. Let every other personality fade from your consideration and consciousness, and think only of your own solitariness in the Divine presence, when "Every one of us shall give an account of himself to God." In every congregation where the gospel is preached Satan entraps individuals in the snare of self-deception by helping them to lose themselves in the mass. How is it with you? You may have attended church all your life and yet never personally, consciously, definitely and irreversibly made a choice to serve God through Jesus Christ. Will you do it now?

(4) Let us lay emphasis on "this day." There is peril in delay. The young prince, Napoleon, in the Zulu war, was one day riding at the head of a squad outside the camp. It was a dangerous position and some one said: "We had better return or we shall fall into the hands of the enemy." "Oh," said the prince, "Let us stay here ten minutes and drink our coffee." Before the ten minutes elapsed the Zulus were upon them and the prince lost his life. When his sorrow-stricken mother heard it, she exclaimed: "Ah, that was his mistake from babyhood; he was ever pleading for ten minutes more. On this account I sometimes called him Mr. Ten Minutes." How many have lost their souls for not their bodies by a like procrastination?

What Is Meant by Serving God? What, indeed, but to yield our wills to him that he may have his will in us in all things? That will is revealed in his word, and as we read and meditate upon it, as it is preached and expounded unto us in the power of his Holy Spirit, it is for us to follow where it leads. His grace is promised to enable us to do this.

The first step, however, is to confess his son Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord. No man is a soldier until he has enlisted, subscribed the oath and donned the uniform, and so in the army of the Lord, he who would belong to it must comply with similar conditions. When the countrymen of Jesus said to him, "What must we do that we may work the works of God?" Jesus answered, "This is the work of God that ye believe on him whom he hath sent." To believe on him is not merely to admit that he once lived on this earth and that he was crucified and died and rose again from the dead. The demons believe this and tremble. But it is to trust him and give ourselves over to him to be saved, and cleansed from sin and guided and controlled by his spirit. If you have never done this, let me urge you to do it now, as your eyes fall upon these words. This, for every unsaved soul, is the meaning of Joshua's words, "Choose you this day whom ye will serve."

(19) Verses 25-27—When God in these days casts the Devil out of a man, does it imply that he can "enter no more into him"? Why?

(20) Verses 28-29—How would you characterize the sin of the disciples for not being able to cast out this evil spirit?

(21) What would be the effect upon the spiritual power of the church if the members were given to fasting and prayer?

JEWELRY.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

JEWELRY is a personal adornment which is worn at the expense of broken-spirited husbands who are no longer able to come to the center of the ring. It is also furnished by suitors who use it as a decoy to trap some wayward member of the opposite sex. If the jewelry fails to spring the trap, it is sent back by freight and used over again.

A woman a la ways prefers to pick out her own jewelry, so that she will not get any gold filled goods. You can fool a woman on a wifow plumage, but the man who tries to get by with protestations of undying love backed up by a reconstructed ruby will find the atmosphere in the tooth paste, but the man who tries to get by with protestations of undying love backed up by a reconstructed ruby will find the atmosphere in the tooth paste, but the man who tries to get by with protestations of undying love backed up by a reconstructed ruby will find the atmosphere in the front parlor down to the freezing point. When a man never makes a call without depositing a pearl necklace or a chateleine watch carelessly on the center table, it is a sure sign that he is hypnotized in both hips.

Men are not allowed to wear any jewelry which their wives can appropriate. Many a man has bought himself a diamond stick pin, under the impression that he had paid for it, only to see it swallowed up in his wife's jewel box while he went back to an old graduating present in the form of a $2 opal. The only kind of men's jewelry which a woman can't make use of is a silverine watch fob issued as a reward of merit for selling fraternal life insurance.

Diamonds are a species of jewelry which always come in just ahead of the wedding march. Sometimes the march does not occur as advertised, and then the engagement ring has to be recovered by attaching the household furniture of the defendant. Diamonds are grown in Africa and sold by the carat. By the time a man has paid for three or four carats with a solid gold setting, he will decide not to finish off the bath room until next year.

The Upper Ten pile on a good deal of jewelry and go to the opera looking like the headlight of a locomotive. This is in such bad taste that the common people use nothing but the hair watch chain and the horse shoe stick pin.

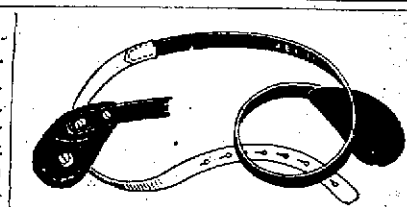

Two Fortunate States.
Oregon and Washington are states where roses bloom all the year round.

Ship's Figureheads.
Carvings for more than five hundred vessels were made by William Southworth, who recently died at Bath. He made a specialty of the carving of figureheads for many years, and some splendid ones were the product of his skill. The rise of commercialism has blotted out the poetic significance of the figurehead and few figureheads are seen nowadays.—Kennebec Journal.

Precious Attributes.
"Why are diamonds so highly valued?" "I suppose," replied Mr. Groucher, "it's because they are made of carbon, which is the equivalent of coal, and at the same time look like ice."

No Good Thing Is Ever Lost.
Remember that truth, the most important and encouraging of all truths. Your life may not seem worth while, the sacrifices that you make for others may not seem worth while. But no good thing is ever lost. And he who does his duty contributes forever to the sum total of that which is good in the universe.

Adoption.
"Have you decided what opinions you will adopt?" "I don't adopt opinions," answered Senator Sorghum. "I make an effort to ascertain what opinions are likely to be associated with success and then persuade them to adopt me."

Danger From Grippe

Lies In That Cough and Weak, Worn Out Condition.

Grippe, pleurisy, pneumonia, these are greatly to be feared at this time of the year.

To prevent grippe from being followed by either pleurisy or pneumonia, it is important to drive the last traces of it out of the system quickly.

Our advice is to take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil, and get your strength and vitality back quickly.

Mrs. A. A. Crabill of Strasburg, Va., says: "Grippe left me weak, run-down and with a severe cough from which I suffered four years. I tried different remedies, but nothing seemed to do me any good until I took Vinol, from which I received great benefit. My cough is almost entirely gone. I am glad to recommend Vinol to others who suffer as I did."

Try Vinol with the certainty that if it does not benefit you we will give back your money. Smith Drug Co., Janesville Wis.
